LITERACY IN DIVERSITY
SETTINGS (LIDS)

You are invited to attend the Next Generation Literacies Online Workshop on Emotional Literacy

Emotional literacy is a term used to describe the ability to recognise and understand one's own and others' emotions, and to express emotions in ways that are constructive for the individual and for others. In this exploratory workshop, you can expect:

- An examination of the background of this concept (& other related terms & notions)
- An exploration of the basic aspects of human emotions & their development
- A discussion on the appropriateness & potential of the term for research & practice with the following question in mind:

(How) does emotional literacy relate to other literacies?

Prof. Christine Schmalenbach is assistant professor for special education at the University of Hamburg. She is involved in teacher education and research in the areas of socio-emotional development and learning. Her central topics include Cooperative Learning (CL) and Socio-Emotional Learning (SEL) in combination with academic learning in heterogeneous groups and under challenging circumstances. Before coming to Hamburg in 2022, she worked in El Salvador (Central America) for three years, leading the development, implementation and evaluation of pedagogical programmes at the NGO Asociación Centro Nehemías.
